Why DigiEco?

An EU report (2019) Skills for Green Jobs, highlights that the shift towards new “green jobs” will be met by adding ‘green’ components to training provision.

A low carbon economy is impacting on our labour market with employment and skill needs likely to affect all workers irrespective of industry sector.

DigiECO will contribute towards achieving the five key pillars of the Government’s ‘Future Jobs Ireland’ Strategy namely ‘a sustainable, resilient and future orientated economy’ by 2025.

A Greener Economy will create jobs however employees will need the skills and knowledge to respond effectively to the shift to greener business practices.

- Greater awareness of energy and resource efficiencies
- Resilient and skilled employees
- Innovative new work practices

- Improved Digital Skills
- Awareness of Climate Change Process
- Enhanced employability skills

WHAT WILL DigiECO DO?

- Improve the digital green skills of participating employees.
- Increase awareness on environmental practices that can contribute towards a greener workplace.
- Inform employees and businesses on upskilling pathways to assist in achieving energy and resource efficiencies.
